One of the "Sweetest Notes Ever Sung"—The Binder!

Breezelets

Everybody's doing it, these days! Doing what? Shocking!

Monday's market report says: "Grain market very nervous and unsettled."

Not half so nervous as the farmer, made so by the above panicky item.

Poor farmer! The back-bone of the country—and the grain manipulators!

There's even a slump in the potato market—35c a bushel. Its enough to make the spuds' eyes water.

It was feared that the liner Lapland had met with disaster while on her voyage last week as she was some days behind time. She has since arrived safe in port. It seems she had made a few "laps" less, during her schedule time.

From the evidence brought out so far in the oil companies' investigations now being held in Calgary before Mr. Justice Carpenter one prominent fact has been made clear.

And that is, that the promoters and directors had been liberally lubricated with "watered" oil stock and a big wad of the "lamb" shareholders' spot cash.

'Twas ever thus—whether gold mines, oil wells, or any other old thing, the unsuspecting shareholder in the "lamb" to be sheared of his good dollars by the wily speculator.

The other day, the German imperial treasurer said in the reichstag, "the Allies' cause already is lost, but that they are struggling against such an admission."

And yet at the same time he calls on Germans "to prepare for a second year of war" with exertions and privations such as have not yet been dreamed of."

A pretty lively "lost cause" that will require such herculean exertions and privations, don't-cha-know!

On the other hand, confidence is expressed in the highest circles in London that within two weeks the aspect of affairs will show a marked change. The new German submarine campaign will be conquered as the previous one was conquered and Flanders and the Dardanelles will show a great advance.

Chinook Breezes

W. Glessner was at his home-stand near Cereal for a few days.

A fine crop of potatoes is reported in this district.

Principal Marcy added an addition to his house last week.

Cheap rates on the C.N.R. for Labor Day. See advt in another column.

Material is being brought in for the new elevator. A gang of men is expected any time now.

Easom—At Calgary, on the 16th inst., to the Rev. C. and Mrs. Easom, a daughter.

J. A. Tully, Grand Organizer of the I.O.O.F. in Alberta, was in town two or three days last week.

THE LATEST POPULAR SONG

The gladsome music of the binder is heard all through this district.

KNOWS A GOOD THING

A Rumley engine and threshing outfit was unloaded here on Monday for Messrs. Turner and Lajvie.

YOU BET HE HAD A HUSTLE ON

Chas. Herve added an addition to house on his farm, and had a general clean-up day, prior to the home-coming of his spouse.

"JACK" DID NO HARM

The weather changed somewhat suddenly the first of the week and a slight frost was reported on Monday morning, but no damage was done.

KIDDIES DOWN TO BUSINESS

School reopened Monday last. The desks are not yet all occupied as some of the elder pupils are helping with the harvest for a short time.

TEACHING YOUNG IDEAS!

Miss Irvine, teacher of Chinook junior room, returned to town on Monday, to resume her duties, after spending the Summer vacation with her father in Manitoba.

SAVE A FEW, PLEASE!

Duck season opens on Wednesday, Sept. 1st. It is reported that birds will be plentiful on the sloughs and Sounding Creek—that is, if the sports don't shoot 'em all off before that date.

A HAPPY MAN!

Mrs. Chas. Herve, from the Channel Island of Jersey, arrived in Chinook on Monday morning, after a rough Atlantic passage of some twelve or thirteen days. We welcome Mrs. Herve to Chinook—one of the best spots in Alberta.

Poultry Raising

On the Farm

Of the many get-rich-quick schemes there is perfect none more defensive than that of poultry raising on paper, and yet, with the proper facilities and applied intelligence, possibly as handsome returns can be had from poultry raising as perhaps from any other industry in proportion to the amount of capital invested and the readiness with which results can be obtained. As a side line for the farmer, or often as an interesting and profitable occupation for the boys and girls on the farm, poultry raising offers great opportunities. The value of the egg as a food is gradually but surely being recognized, with the result that the market for eggs is rapidly increasing. This means that in future good prices for poultry products are sure to be realized.

Recently experiments have shown that flocks with unlimited range, such as they usually have on the farm, have given greater profits per fowl than flocks that were confined. The poultry house should be dry, free from draughts, and well ventilated, but need not be an expensive structure, as was once thought necessary. With better systems of marketing the products, and with plenty of reliable information regarding the business, now within the easy reach of all contemplating taking it up, there is no reason why there should not be a development in poultry raising in keeping with its importance.

Splendid bulletines on the subject may be obtained from the Dominion Department of Agriculture and from the Provincial Departments.

Military authorities warn farmers this season of danger of prairie fires, due possibly to incendiaryism by alien enemies.

A fire at the present time would do untold damage, and farmers cannot be too careful, and no precaution should be left undone.

Last week hail visited the district around Alask, doing considerable damage. In some parts of the district the crops are said to have been totally destroyed, while in others the loss will not be so great. The loss for the district affected, is estimated at forty per cent.

Conditions in Canada are as favorable for the raising of sheep as for cattle, horses or swine. Yet we find these latter have rapidly increased during the past thirty-five years, while there has been a considerable decline in the number of sheep raised during the same period.

One Day's List

To the Credit of the Allies

Monday's news from the front contained the following disasters which befel the enemy:

Germans badly beaten in naval battle in the Baltic.

British submarine sinks German battleship Moltke in the Baltic.

Turkish collier torpedoed by British submarine in the Sea of Marmora.

British seaplane drops a bomb on a Turkish transport, sinking her.

French torpedo boats sink a German torpedo boat destroyer off Ostend.

Italy declares war on Turkey. Japan promises more active assistance to Russia.

Letter Writers

v Becomes Economical

Since the imposition of the war tax on letters and postcards the volume of mail matter posted in Canada has decreased by about 30 per cent. The war tax was expected to add a little over fifty per cent. to the post office, but in consequence of the economy practiced by the public in the matter of saving on letter, etc., the increased revenue has been considerably less than anticipated.

In the first four months of operation of the war tax the department's revenue has increased by $1,000,000, or about 30 per cent. as compared with the corresponding period last year. A large part of this increase, however, is due to the sale of stamps for cheques, money orders, etc. The minister of finance estimated last session that the war tax would bring in an additional revenue of from twenty to twenty-five million dollars. Present indications are that the special taxes will not aggregate more than half the amount. The net result cannot be exactly determined in view of the fact that there is no means of ascertaining what the drop in revenue would have been had no extra tariff or stamp taxes been imposed.

Kitchener's new army is now moving to the firing line in France. Some 200,000 have already left Salisbury Plains, it is stated, and large drafts are moving from other training camps.

An airship's speed is about forty-five miles an hour; an aeroplane's about seventy-five miles.

Bluejackets in the United States navy get eggs and bacon for their breakfast, and are allowed as many helpings as they like.

Chinook Breezes

Mr. Hogle of Cereal was a Chinook visitor on Wednesday.

Large quantities of binder twine is going out of here daily.

Mr. W. R. Hawkshaw was a Youngstown visitor on Monday.

Rev. D. Simpson of Cereal was in town on Monday.

Corp. Baker, R.N.W.M.P. of Youngstown, was in Chinook a day or two this week.

Several khaki men are around this vicinity to help with the harvest.

It is truly "Golden waving grain" this week, whether you look south, west, north or east.

The trains both from the east and west have been some hours late at Chinook the past few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Peck and son Lloyd returned home on Tuesday evening from their motor trip to Viscount, Sask.

The influx of commercial travelers to the country towns along this line is quite noticeable these days.

Miss Fish, who has been the guest of Mrs. Rideout the past week or two, left on Tuesday to join her father near Camrose.

Mr. E. Kitchen returned to Chinook last week to harvest his crop here, which are more forward in this vicinity than in the foothill district.

BINDER SHORTAGE

There's going to be a scarcity of binders in this vicinity. It is almost impossible to get anywhere enough to supply orders. Also repairs are at a premium.

DISTRICT MEETING

Quarterly Board meeting of the Methodist Church will be held on Tuesday. Delegates will be appointed to attend the district meeting to be held at Youngstown on Thursday and Friday of next week.

RETURNS AND TAKES UP THE WORK

Rev. C. Easom, pastor of the Methodist here, returned from Calgary last week end, where he has been the past two months, under the doctor's care. Mr. Easom has come to stay, and will take up the work with renewed strength and vigor.

HAVE A BANQUET

The officers and directors of the Chinook Agricultural Society had a meeting on Saturday evening. After the meeting, the officers and directors and some of their wives sat down to a fine banquet at the New Acadia Hotel, prepared by Mine Host Riner.

Dan Patch's

Record Nearly Busted in Chinook

Those who witnessed the two "Commercials," who were up town when the local going West on Wednesday afternoon began to move out from the depot, were spectators of some class sprinting. We venture to say Tom Longboat wasn't in their class at all—even in his palmy days. It was certainly the best stunt ever on exhibition in this part of Alberta, and would have done credit even to Dan Patch's famous record. The train was well on its way when the first Com. got abreast of the caboose and leaped aboard. On went the second Com.; who, on the start, was some fifty feet in the rear. On he went, heedless of the waving golden grain around him, heedless of a tempting order, and heedless of the unsurpassed panoramic view of the landscape. Each moment the engine was gaining in momentum and each moment the runner was perceptibly gaining as they both went bowling onward. It was a fine exhibition of record-breaking, neck-breaking, and nerve-rickling contest. Gee! You should have seen him go! The spell-bound spectators were held in breathless excitement. Would he make it, or would he not—that was the question. Now he was drawing nearer and nearer the now fast retreating train. Now he is within a few feet of the tail-end of the caboose! Now he is level with the steps, he makes a frantic clutch at the rear car rail, holds it, and with a last supreme effort makes a spring for the steps and lands safe aboard the lugger, by jimminy!

Siberia, Russia's great dominion in Asia, contains nearly five million square miles. It has a much warmer summer than is generally imagined, the spring beginning in April or May, according to the district, and continuing until the end of August. The winter is, however, very severe, all rivers being frozen over by the end of November.

Sheep-raising pays. Try it with a flock of ten or twelve grade ewes, and a pure bred ram, and increase the profits from your farm, and at the same time, you will be cleaning and enriching your land.

There are over four hundred million people in the British Empire.

JUST about a year ago, or to be exact, on July 31, 1914, Russia ordered the general mobilization of her army. On the next day, Aug. 1, Germany declared war on Russia, and on that same day the French cabinet ordered mobilization.

Thus the war now raging over all Europe has celebrated its first birthday and has developed nothing that looks like peace. On Aug. 2 German forces entered Luxembourg, and the Kaiser demanded free passage through Belgium. Two days later England sent an ultimatum to Germany demanding the observance of Belgium's neutrality, which was rejected on the day it was received. German troops then attacked Liege, and President Wilson issued the first neutrality proclamation.

The war to date, according to conservative estimates compiled from the best available reports, has caused a loss to the various belligerents of more than 6,000,000 men, dead, wounded and prisoners, and more than 600 ships. Of these about 120 were war vessels.

The outstanding results on land are these:

The greater part of Belgium is under the control of Germany.

Germany has been driven from the far east.

A part of the Dardanelles is in the possession of the allied troops.

Part of France and Russia are in the possession of German troops.

A small strip of Alsace has been taken from Germany.

On the continent of Africa parts of territorial possessions have been lost by both sides.

Various island possessions of Germany have been taken by the forces of the allies.

Italian troops are in possession of a strip of Austrian territory.

Losses in Sea Battles.

The outstanding results at sea are these:

German and Austrian mercantile shipping has been driven from all the open seas.

German and Austrian war vessels, having a total displacement of approximately 267,000 tons, have been destroyed.

War vessels of the allied nations, having a total displacement of approximately 192,000 tons, have been sent to the bottom.

The greater portions of the German and allied fleets in the North sea remain intact.

Except for communication through Holland and the Scandinavian nations, Germany is cut off from the rest of the world.

Efforts on the part of the Germans to place the British fleet in a similar predicament have resulted in the sinking by submarines of hundreds of vessels flying the flags of the allied and neutral nations.

The sinking in this manner of the Cunard liner Lusitania, with the loss of more than 100 American lives precipitated a request upon the part of the United States that such practices, so far as they might menace Americans, be stopped.

The First Land Operations.

By Aug. 17 the first British expeditionary force had completed its landing in France, and on that day, there began also a fierce battle on the Ypres front.

Victory was with the Serbian army after five days of fighting, and the Austrians were routed.

In the meanwhile the battle of Lorraine had opened, and the German troops had entered Brussels, the Belgian capital.

A few days later, Aug. 23, the victorious Germans entered Namur and began an attack on Mons, defended principally by the first British expeditionary force.

The next day the British troops began a retreat from their position, and from then on until Sept. 13 the German troops drove through France under the leadership of General von Kluck. Zeppelins bombarded Antwerp; the French were forced to evacuate Muehlenheim; the Germans took and swept over Longwy and Creasy and Hogue. On the same day reached Senlis, thirty miles from Paris, where the columns swung to the east and took Jaroslaw.

The French government fled to Bordeaux.

In the meanwhile German and Austrian troops had met the Russians. A victory at Krassk was announced by their destination the Germans had in the Austrian government, on Aug. 23, augmented a siege of Antwerp, which while on Aug. 28 the German army under General von Hindenburg defeated moving from that city to Ostend. Two days later the bombardment of Antwerp began. The Belgian government remained at Ostend for about a week, and then removed to Havre, France.

The blockade was maintained more than two months before Tieling was rendered.

Two days after the French government moved to Bordeaux the battle of Ypres and Neuport continued for a week and then weakened.

During the latter part of October the British Dreadnought Audacious was sunk off the Irish coast; the Russians successfully attacked Lodz and Radom.

Before the French and British troops driving out the invading Germans, the Germans in France were forced to retreat as far as the Aisne. Events by naval operations in the Black sea.

Of the next few days included the bombardment of Odessa was attacked.

MRS. ROBERT LANSING, NEW "FIRST LADY" OF THE LAND

WITH the appointment of Robert Lansing as secretary of state the figure of Mrs. Lansing looms large upon the social horizon of Washington for the wife of the premier, in ex officio, an important personage, and none the less in this instance, as Mrs. Lansing is a bit of a personage in her own right.

As the daughter of John W. Foster, one time secretary of state, she has had large experience of official life here and abroad. She is thoroughly versed in the customs of Washington society and fitted to assume the role of leader of the official contingent.

Mr. and Mrs. Lansing make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Foster in Eighteenth street. As Miss Eleanor Foster, Mrs. Lansing was a belle of the capital during the days when her father headed President Harrison's cabinet. She is an unusually handsome woman, graceful, charming, aristocratic and is considered one of the beauties of the cabinet contingent.

While Mr. Bryan was secretary of state it was the tendency to speak of Mrs. Bryan as the "social arbiter" of Washington officialdom and, since Mrs. Wilson's death, "first lady of the land." Mrs. Bryan never cared to advance this claim because Mrs. Thomas Riley Marshall, wife of the vice president, and Miss Margaret Wilson, the president's daughter, were entitled to the distinction by all canons of official etiquette. Likewise Mrs. Lansing will evade and ignore this distinction, but there is no law on earth that will keep the society folk from referring to her as the "first lady."

A contrast of Mrs. Bryan and Mrs. Lansing is interesting just at this time. Mrs. Bryan is a woman whose interests center entirely in her husband and in her family and is inclined to agree with her husband that the social side of statecraft is of small consequence. Mrs. Bryan was only too glad to avail herself of the official mourning for Mrs. Wilson to refrain from all entertaining not absolutely necessary and to evade as much social responsibility as possible. Moreover, although intelligent, cultivated and traveled, Mrs. Bryan, until her husband entered the cabinet, had scant knowledge of official life.

Mrs. Bryan has always prided herself on being more of a domestic woman than a society woman. She has gone in for studious things, being a lawyer in her own right, and is a model of domesticity.

In contrast to Mrs. Bryan, Mrs. Lansing has wide and intimate experience of life in the great capitals of Europe, and her long residence in Washington has familiarized her with the peculiar social problems of the place and with the far-reaching effects of the social side of diplomacy and statecraft. However, she is not a "society" woman in the usually accepted meaning of the term, which implies empty head, and takes keen and intelligent interest in the great questions of the day.

"Ticked to Death" Over his Crop !

Mr. Frank Robbins of Rollinson has returned back, after spending some months in California, and other of the States. Mr. Robbins visited the Panama exhibition and is loud in his praise of the magnificent Canadian building and exhibit. It was an eye-opener to many of Uncle Samuel's level-headed farmers and financiers. Mr. Robbins is naturally "ticked to death" at his bumper crop here.

The Kaiser's visiting cards, measuring six inches by four, are the largest known. His cards no doubt correspond with his head.

THE "I" AND THE "J."

Why They are Dotted and How the Dot came to be put on them.

The dot over the "i" originated in an accent which was put over the letter when doubled or placed next to a "u," a practice traced back to the eleventh century. In the twelfth century the accent occurs in the combination of "i" with other letters, and in the fourteenth century the accent was changed to a dot—first instance in MSS. 1327—which became universal when printing made it inconvenient to retain both forms.

Originally "i" and "j" were modified forms of the same letter. In the fifteenth century the "i" at the beginning of a word was lengthened and ornamentally turned to the left, while in the middle of a word it was unaltered. Both forms were dotted, and after the initial "i" became "j," a separate letter and a consonant, it still retained its dot. This is limited usually to the small "j," but abroad it may be seen also over the capital letter.—London Telegraph.
